GALERIES LAFAYETTE PARIS HAUSSMANN, A “WORLD STORE”

Galeries Lafayette Paris Haussmann has proudly stood as a vibrant focal point in the French capital since its creation in 1894. For over a century now, the department store and its famous Art Nouveau dome have symbolised creative energy and showcased contemporary trends by carrying over 2,000 brands from all over the world.

Renowned as the ultimate omnichannel retailer championing core social values, Galeries Lafayette is a legendary “world store” that both sets trends and serves as a benchmark as it aims to delight and captivate visitors from France and around the world, seeking above all to create a forum in which people can come together, influence one another and celebrate culture.

Its visitors are inspired and transformed; treated with care and advised with feeling. At Galeries Lafayette Paris Haussmann, both online and in store, no-one feels like they don't belong, everyone feels at home.

A DEPARTMENT STORE A RICH HISTORY

“Aux Galeries Lafayette” was founded by Théophile Bader and Alphonse Kahn, two cousins from Alsace, as they opened their first 70 s.q meters store on 1 rue Lafayette on 15 January 1894.

In 1912, the newly extended store was inaugurated on Boulevard Haussmann, proudly boasting its now famous Neo-byzantine dome and securing the building's place in the Art Nouveau heritage of Paris. Initially a manufacturer striving to make the latest designer trends available to the general public through its own brand, the company shifted to ready-to-wear fashion after the Second World War, encouraging manufacturers and stylists to work more closely together and enthusiastically championing emerging brands in store.

AN ICONIC DOME, AN ART NOUVEAU MASTERPIECE

Located in the heart of Paris, Galeries Lafayette Paris Haussmann dazzles visitors with its majestic dome, which has become renowned as one of the most iconic architectural monuments in the French capital.

Overlooking 45,000 s.q meters of retail space, the dome epitomises the Galeries Lafayette Paris Haussmann department store, designed to be a veritable theatre of fashion in Paris and a bustling destination staging special events all throughout the year.

Spring 2021 saw the completion of extensive renovation to the dome after two years of work. This major project has fully restored the dome to its original splendour as an Art Nouveau masterpiece, erected in 1912 in record time, renowned for its architectural prowess and designed by three iconic artists – Ferdinand Chanut, responsible for the geometrics and structure, Jacques Grüber, who created the stained glass, and Louis Majorelle, in charge of the ironwork.

A UNIQUE BUILDING AND THE BEATING HEART OF PARISIAN SHOPPING

Since it was first founded, Galeries Lafayette Paris Haussmann has continuously reinvented itself to adapt to changing consumer habits and bring the finest contemporary retail experience to the millions of people who visit the store each year. In an effort to consistently satisfy, surprise and delight its customers.

Combining timeless classics and fresh new trends, the main store presents an inspiring selection of fashion, beauty and accessories for women and children, from accessible pieces to luxury items, across seven floors.

SETTING TRENDS IN FASHION

First, second and third floors

Galeries Lafayette Paris Haussmann sets trends in fashion, offering customers a regularly revamped selection of fashion brands from France and around the world. Three floors are set aside for designer labels, forming a pantheon of sustainable fashion combining must-have brands and online trailblazers.

THE GIANT CHRISTMAS TREE

THE GIANT CHRISTMAS TREE AND CHRISTMAS WINDOW DISPLAYS

A cherished tradition since 1976, every year, a spectacular giant Christmas Tree dazzles visitors to the Galleries Lafayette Paris Haussmann Coupole store, while the stunning festive window displays bring joy to all, young and old.

A formidable team of puppet masters, engineers, illustrators, artisans, sculptors, sound designers, motion designers and many other specialists come together to bring these decorations into being. The creative process to bring the Christmas Tree and window displays to life is extensive, including design, modelling, drawing, fabrication right through to installation, and lasts an entire year.

WHERE FASHION AND DESIGN COME TOGETHER AS ONE

Since it was first founded, Art and Creativity have formed an integral part of the identity of Galeries Lafayette Paris Haussmann, as it strives to make them accessible to all. The store makes works of art, responsible designs and ground-breaking installations available to the wider public, encouraging each visitor to admire and indulge in the finest contemporary design.

CHAMPIONING VIBRANT AND SUSTAINABLE FASHION

Since the start of the 20th century, Galeries Lafayette has sought to showcase the best fashion has to offer to the public by opening its own workshops. As one of the first companies to import the role of fashion director to France, Galeries Lafayette showed very early on its ability to help young talent connect with manufacturers and has been behind a multitude of successful collaborations, with emerging designers and major names in fashion, such as Jean Patou, Madeleine Vionnet, Gabrielle Chanel, Sonia Rykiel, Cacharel and Azzedine Alaïa.

Today, Galeries Lafayette supports young designers who stand for issues in which they believe through regular collaborations to prolong their efforts in this area for many years to come.

CARTE BLANCHE UNDER THE DOME

Each year, Galeries Lafayette Paris Haussmann invites artists and designers to show their work under the famous dome. This initiative brings never before seen works of art and installations to the general public, making the department store a destination for culture as well as shopping.

A RESPONSIBLE DEPARTMENT STORE

Conscious of the social and environmental challenges currently facing the world, the Group has positioned sustainable development as a key priority, rolling out effective initiatives to make fashion more responsible and reduce its carbon footprint.

GO FOR GOOD, CHAMPIONING MORE RESPONSIBLE FASHION

Since 2018, Galeries Lafayette has showcased “Go for Good”, a creative approach to encourage fashion to become more responsible.

The movement highlights the positive action taken by Galeries Lafayette and a community of more than 2,000 partner brands to ramp up the pace of change, not only in Fashion, but also Home, Beauty and Food.

PIONEERING URBAN VEGETALIZATION IN THE HEART OF PARIS

Since 2015, Galeries Lafayette Haussmann have deployed a large number of initiative aimed at vegetating their various spaces, notably on the roof of the roof of the Coupole building. In total, 1,000 s.q meters of plants cover this open-air area, which is constantly which is constantly being transformed with the seasons seasons, under the eyes of visitors.
